

Weil's Financial Services Litigation Team

Drawing on attorneys from across our practices and offices, we partner with a wide range of global financial services companies to provide cutting-edge counseling on complex securities, corporate, commercial, and regulatory issues, and sensitive internal and governmental investigations. Our attorneys have collectively represented commercial and investment banks, broker-dealers, insurers, real estate companies, private equity firms, and asset managers, and their directors and executives in virtually every major legal event to have affected the business world in recent memory.
