Businesses require an edge to succeed in a highly competitive world. Since 1912, companies have relied on Dorsey & Whitney to help give them that edge. With 565 attorneys in 20 offices we have a focus on banking and financial services, an area in which we have great depth and impressive history. Our Securities and Financial Services attorneys are known for their practical advice, handle cases throughout the country, conduct internal investigations for companies of all sizes, and include attorneys who've worked for the SEC, DOJ, and CFPB. Recent victories include a federal court's dismissal of a billion dollar derivative suit against our public-company client after a merger announcement; a jury verdict in favor of our revenue-development client in a case alleging securities fraud; and a FINRA panel's rejection of a multi-million dollar wrongful termination claim brought by a former registered agent against our Fortune 500 financial services client.
